March Recap

During the month of March, we discussed the subject of Literature. It has been called the immortality of speech. The children wrote letters to a Wisconsin author named Kasmira Sheth. She appreciated the letters so much that she wrote us back. Class members got to write poems, short stories, and create pictures that they presented before their friends in our group. The stories, poems, and pictures were then submitted to the Matheson Memorial Library for publishing as part of their "What Color is Reading Journal". The class also made a six-foot-long mural that will be displayed at the library for viewing.

April News

This beautiful month in spring, we hope to learn about Botany. This study of plants has been referred to as "the eldest daughter of Medicine" As we discuss Botany, I hope that it will help the children develop an interest in the environment as well as ways we can make improvements in and protect it. We will conduct experiments that show the effects of sunlight on a plant. We will also plant a Wrap-Around window garden. As we learn about the variety of plants around the world, the children will get to take a plant home to care for.

Reminders

There is no School on April 30th; if you need childcare, please call the main center at 262-723-8391.

Upcoming Events

Lakeland's Little Learners Book Fair starts May 3rd at our main center.

Stock up for summer reading!!

Family Connection

Take a walk with your children on one of the many nature trails in our area and do a wildflower scavenger hunt. Look for different leaves, flowers and grasses that are native to our area. Discuss with your children the names of the plants you find and what makes those plants unique.
